WEEKLY EPISODES

RHP asks what happened to the women? And puts them in. We have a weekly episode featuring the hosts and prominent guests, writers, and professional historians. The episode almost always has a corresponding inquiry-based lesson plan available on our website, along with hundreds of other resources for educators to use in their classrooms.

5 STAR REVIEWS

"This is an informative and wonderfully entertaining podcast!... The hosts do an amazing job of drawing attention to historical women in a fun and lightly snarky way that brings history alive."

"Bam two crazy smart, intelligent, funny women serving up all things history and women! This isn't just for teachers it's for anyone who has already felt they were missing half the story..."

Eye opening and enjoyable! I love the format they use to make this a resource for teachers while also being engaging and educational for the average listener."

Women, men, teachers, parents, feminists-- anyone looking to get an accurate and full picture of the female perspective on history-- should listen to this podcast."
